Blue Team vs Red Team

Team play, half comparison and game plan · 4-3-3

Data scope: This analysis is based on player position and movement measured by camera: running, tempo, speed, pitch use and team shape. Blue Team goals: Insa (3), Nobel (1).

Half Comparison

Indicator	1st Half	2nd Half	Opponent (1st → 2nd)
Tempo (m/min)	97	93	114 → 107
Time in defensive third	16%	11%	9% → 21%
Time in midfield third	71%	62%	61% → 49%
Time in attacking third	13%	27%	30% → 30%
Time at walking speed (0–4 km/h)	50%	54%	42% → 46%
Average team position from own goal (m)	50	57	44 → 52

1st Half: Midfield-Concentrated Game

Play was concentrated mainly in midfield: defense 16%, midfield 71%, attack 13%. The team's average position was 50 m from its own goal, slightly behind the halfway line. Tempo was below the opponent: 97 vs 114 m/min.

2nd Half: Higher Territorial Position

The team spent 11% in the defensive third, 62% in midfield and 27% in the attacking third. Average position moved to 57 m from its own goal, beyond the halfway line. Tempo remained below the opponent: 93 vs 107 m/min.

Balanced Corridor Use

Corridor use (whole match)	Blue Team	Opponent
Left corridor	26%	23%
Center	41%	58%
Right corridor	33%	19%

Corridor use was balanced. Left-side players averaged about 91 m/min and right-side players about 90 m/min. The three highest-tempo players were Meshack Osei (102 m/min), Keryane Mansouri (99 m/min) and Racine Coly (98 m/min).

Team Shape and Compactness

Visible block (width × depth, m)	Blue Team	Opponent
1st Half · Left half	39.9 × 30.7	36.0 × 21.7
1st Half · Right half	40.7 × 20.7	24.9 × 18.6
2nd Half · Left half	40.3 × 22.3	30.8 × 37.6
2nd Half · Right half	34.4 × 39.8	29.0 × 32.0

Average block depth was similar (28 m vs 27 m). Average player spacing was 8.4 m for Blue Team and 9.2 m for the opponent.

Summary Assessment

STRENGTHS	AREAS TO IMPROVE
Goal production: Insa (3), Nobel (1) Moved the game into the opponent half after the break	Limited attacking-third presence in the first half (13%) Higher walking share late in the match

Blue Team showed a more advanced territorial position in the second half and spent more time in the opponent half.